SOCIAL PROGRAM AND TOUR SCHEDULE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1989

451

A Night at Stone Mountain/5:00-10:00 p.m.

Banjo pickin' and a casual buffet supper await you at Georgia's Stone Mountain Memorial Park. Visit Memorial Hall, where the fascinating history of the world's largest work of sculptured art will be explained as you view the detailed rendering of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Then go aboard the Henry W. Grady, your private party paddlewheel riverboat for the evening. Enjoy a delicious southern buffet during the relaxing three hour cruise.

452

An Evening at the Alliance Theatre/7:15-11:00 p.m.

Enjoy the Atlanta premiere of "Southern Cross" by John Klein at the Alliance Theatre, located at the beautiful Woodruff Arts Center.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1989

Aerobics, Crystal Ballroom/7:00-8:00 a.m.

525

Tour of Callaway Gardens and Warm Springs/9:00-5:00 p.m.

You will enjoy the tranquility and beauty of Callaway Gardens, which includes the special John A. Sibley Horticultural Center and the exciting new Cecil B. Day Butterfly Center. After lunch at the Callaway Gardens Inn, you will take a short drive to Warm Springs and visit President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's Little White House.

Presenting Atlanta/9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

After driving through downtown Atlanta, the "Sweet Auburn" section, center of Atlanta's black business and cultural heritage, and past the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial, you will see the wonderful sound and light show at the Cyclorama, a unique memorial to the battle of Atlanta. You will then view other highlights as you drive up the famed Peachtree Street, such as the High Museum of Art and the Fox Theatre.

527

Civil War History of Atlanta/10:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

A trip to the Kennesaw Mountain National Battlefield starts your day as you step back into history. A box lunch will be enjoyed at the charming town square in Marietta. Tours of the Tullie Smith House and McElreath Hall follow, after which you visit the Cyclorama, which presents the Battle of Atlanta through a light and sound show against the massive circular three-dimensional painting.

528

Elegant Atlanta/1:00-4:00 p.m.

Visit the Atlanta Historical Society where you will tour the lovely Swan House, a dream mansion featuring the swan motif throughout. The restored pre-Civil War Tullie Smith House depicts the daily life of early Georgia, and McElreath Hall features the Atlanta Historical Society exhibit.

529

Spectacular Stone Mountain/1:00-5:00 p.m.

The breathtaking carving of Confederate heroes Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jefferson Davis on Stone Mountain's north face will be viewed during your visit at this park. You will also have the opportunity to enjoy two of the four delightful attractions offered here. There are several places to enjoy lunch on your own.

Opening Cocktail Party/7:00-9:30 p.m.

Join the Congress at the historic Georgia Railroad Depot, adjacent to Atlanta's hottest new entertainment center, Underground Atlanta.

A Dixieland Band will greet you. The "walking heads", Scarlett and Rhett, will be at the entrance to the Depot and as the doors open, you'll see cloggers on stage, blue grass playing, and an old fashion jazz fest, Georgia style.

The aroma of barbeque will fill the air as "whole pigs for pickin'" cook on barbeque grills throughout the Depot. Just when you think you've seen and heard it all, out comes Sweet Tooth. Atlanta's own Pat Andrews takes you back to the 50's and 60's for a great taste of "Southern Beach Music." Casual dress suggested. Continuous shuttle from main entrance of Hilton from 6:45 p.m.-9:00 p.m. Buses returning to Hyatt and Hilton until 10:30 p.m.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1989

Aerobics, Crystal Ballroom/7:00-8:00 a.m.

New Auxiliary Member Breakfast, Presidential Suite/8:00-9:00 a.m.

530

The Private Side of Atlanta/9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon

This very special tour includes a visit to three lovely private homes where you will have a rare opportunity to venture beyond the imposing front doors to view their interiors, thereby capturing the flavor of fashionable Atlanta's lifestyle. Champagne will be served at one of these gracious homes.

531/532R

Fashion, Fine Food and Shopping — Auxiliary Luncheon and Annual Meeting
12:30-5:00 p.m.

The Marriott Marquis is our destination today, where you will enjoy a wonderful three-course luncheon while watching a high energy show of Neiman Marcus' latest fashions. Ten models will reveal the freshest looks from Europe and the United States. Buses will then transport you to Lenox Square shopping mall, the largest in the Southeast.

505

Evening On The Town — Down South/6:30 p.m.-10:30 p.m.

The first stop, after highlighting Atlanta landmarks, will be an elegant Atlanta home where you will enjoy mint juleps. Next, you will enjoy dinner at famous Aunt Fanny's Cabin, a former slave cabin built over 130 years ago which now houses one of the most memorable dining establishments in the country. During the southern dinner, you will be entertained by the Aunt Fanny Singers and the Buckwheat Cloggers who demonstrate the mountain folk art of clogging.

506

Fun Run and Walk/6:15-7:15 a.m.

This annual event will be held at Atlanta's largest public park, Piedmont Park, which is the finishing point for the famous July 4th Peachtree Road Race which attracts over 25,000 runners each year from all over the world. Walkers are also encouraged to begin the day with a brisk morning walk.

Fun Run T-Shirts

The official Fun Run T-Shirt for Atlanta is available in both adult and children's sizes. Whether or not you participate in this year's Fun Run, you will want this souvenir of the meeting.

Aerobics/7:00-8:00 a.m.

AUXILIARY EDUCATIONAL SEMINARS/8:30 a.m.-10:30 a.m.

533

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome: Present Crisis and Future Trends/8:30-9:30 a.m.

This seminar will feature Rosemary Ramsey, Assistant Director of Program Operations and Management, Division of Host Factors Center for Infectious Diseases, Centers for Disease Control, Atlanta.

Her area of interest and expertise is in the acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). She has published and lectured extensively on the subject of AIDS, particularly in hemophiliacs.

Mrs. Ramsey will address the AIDS epidemic, discuss risk factors including those affecting neurosurgeons, review current trends in diagnosis and treatment and discuss ongoing research at the Centers for Disease Control.

Emergency and Resuscitation Workshop/8:30-9:30 a.m.

This Red Cross-sanctioned workshop thoroughly covers what a non-medical person faced with an emergency needs to know. Course instructors will be Patricia Smith, RN, and Sandra Barnette, RN. Participants will learn important life-saving skills that must be started immediately while the ambulance is on the way. Included in the agenda will be discussion of causes, signs and symptoms, statistics and general first aid measures for a variety of medical emergencies including heart attack, stroke, seizures, diabetes, poisoning, heat stroke and frostbite. The seminar will also include a discussion of the signs and symptoms and general first aid for traumatic injuries such as abrasions and lacerations, bleeding, burns and bone fractures.

Lipid and Cholesterol Monitoring Interpretation/9:30-10:30 a.m.

The individual participants in this program will undergo a simple blood test that provides an immediate non-fasting determination of their serum lipid profile. Dr. Donald Davis of the Department of Internal Medicine at Emory University School of Medicine will discuss the role of cholesterol and other lipids in health and disease. This discussion will allow the participants to interpret their own lipid profile. Dr. Davis will also review methods by which individuals can reduce the levels of those potentially harmful lipids.

536

Mammography for Breast Cancer Screening/9:30-10:30 a.m.

This course will be presented by Dr. Patricia Hudgens, a neuroradiologist at Emory University School of Medicine. One out of eleven women will develop carcinoma of the breast. Breast cancer is the most common cancer occurring in women. Because survival rate is best when the tumor is small and localized, attempts to detect lesions early should be aggressive. Careful breast self-examination together with routine mammography are currently our best methods for detecting small cancers. Dr. Hudgens, through her special interest in mammography, will discuss the role, benefits and interpretation of mammography.

Presidential Address/11:30 a.m.-12:00 noon

J. Michael McWhorter, M.D. will speak at the Atlanta Hilton Hotel and Towers.

537

Museum Hopping/2:30-5:00 p.m.

Visit the new Science and Technology Museum better known as SciTrek. This is a museum of interactive exhibits where you will have the opportunity to conduct experiments which lead you to the discovery of the principles of the physical sciences. The next stop is the High Museum of Art, housed in a building that is a work of art in itself and a perfect setting for the fine collection it houses.

538

Atlanta Highlights/2:30-5:00 p.m.

Atlanta's hottest news story — the CNN Center — is the first stop this afternoon. You will experience the electricity and excitement of a news service in action and will have the opportunity to visit the TBS Collections, which highlights Superstation WTBS, the Atlanta Braves, the Atlanta Hawks and TBS' library of MGM film classics. You will then proceed to the Carter Presidential Center, home of the Presidential Library, where you will find 70,000 square feet of manuscripts, photographs and folk art.

539

A Twilight Tour of Madison, Georgia/3:00-9:00 p.m.

A tour of "the town Sherman refused to burn" will include visits to two lovely antebellum private homes, the charming Advent Episcopal Church, and the Madison-Morgan Cultural Center where you will enjoy a lovely southern dinner.

A Nightmare on Peachtree — Halloween Night!/8:00 p.m.-12:00 midnight

Victorian vampires, freaks and aliens await to meet you in a perfect setting — the Haunted Castle at Rhodes Hall! As you tour this castle-home, you will see the reflection of the architectural, cultural and social richness of a turn-of-the-century Atlanta. Then, on to Underground Atlanta, where you can wander from club to club to see how Halloween is celebrated in contemporary Atlanta. There will be a continuous shuttle back to your hotel.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1989

Aerobics/7:00-8:00 a.m.

540

A Day at a Spa/9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.

A relaxing and rejuvenating day awaits you at Southwind, whether you want to join a nutrition seminar or aerobics class, hike on a nature trail, or take a spa cooking class. In order to take advantage of all that will be offered, wear comfortable clothes and bring a bathing suit. A wonderful Spa Cuisine Luncheon is included. Capacity limited.

541

Southern Plantations/9:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

Experience the sweet scent of magnolia as you visit the scenic Old South. On this tour, you will be guests at three different southern style plantation homes which are located in the region which was made famous, first in military maneuvers during the Atlanta campaign of the Civil War, and later in Margaret Mitchell's famous novel, Gone With The Wind.

542

Shopping! Shopping! Shopping!/9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Lenox Square, the largest shopping mall in the Southeast, and Phipps Plaza, across the street and next door to the lovely Ritz-Carlton Buckhead, are the two malls visited today. Shuttle service is provided between the two malls and there are many places to eat at both malls.

514

"Not Your Ordinary Annual Banquet"/7:00 p.m.-1:00 a.m.

Be prepared for surprises at this gala event. Bring your dancing shoes and be prepared for something unique and unforgettable!

A GUIDE
FOR VISITING FRIENDS

A History Of Atlanta

When the U.S. Constitution was ratified in 1788, four-fifths of Georgia was Indian territory. Present Atlanta was the site of the Indian village called Standing Peachtree, at the confluence of the Chattahoochee River and Peachtree Creek. This village was on the Indian trail circuit, the Hightower trail, which ran from Augusta, Georgia through Madison, past Stone Mountain into northern Alabama. Thus, the first period of Atlanta's prominence as a major crossroads and transportation center began where Indian trails and the Chattahoochee River converged.

In 1837 the Western and Atlantic railroad extended its tracks from Tennessee into Georgia and formed the new white settlement, Terminus — Atlanta's first name meaning "the end of the line." The land rush for former Indian territory in the Atlanta area was stimulated by the rapid development of the railroad system which linked Terminus first to Tennessee in 1837, then to Marietta in 1842, and to Augusta three years later. In 1843 Terminus was renamed Marthasville after a daughter of former Governor Lumpkin. Then in 1845, Marthasville became Atlanta, a name associated with the town's first railroad, the Western and Atlantic. From this time until the outbreak of the Civil War, Atlanta thrived — building and creating churches, banks, hotels, a city government, newspapers, fire departments, more railroads, new businesses, courthouses, gaslights, and city directories. By 1862, with a population of over 9,000, Atlanta was a major Confederate military post, supply hub, and hospital and relief center.

And then the city fell! The Battle of Atlanta in the Civil War was a turning point for both the Union and Confederacy. Atlanta had to be taken by the Federal forces because of its strategic location for the Confederacy. General William Sherman's Union Army of 100,000 troops fought its way from Tennessee to Atlanta in May, 1864 following the route of the Western and Atlantic railroad. Despite preparing for the siege with 12 miles of formidable trenches circling the city, the Federal troops broke through from all directions, cutting the major railroad lines to Atlanta. The mayor surrendered in September and ordered civilian evacuation. General Sherman burned the city to the ground and set out on his march to the sea to take General Lee's rebel forces from their own southern flank. Atlanta, the dynamo of the Confederacy was silenced.

But Atlantans were undaunted and came back to build from the ashes of destruction a new social, economic, and political fabric — a new South. In 1868 Atlanta became the capital of the state, only three years after the city had been leveled by Federal troops during the Civil War. Atlanta, originally the backwoods Georgia trading post for Indians and then for the colonial traders, took over the leadership of the largest state east of the Mississippi.

The city's official emblem is the phoenix. In Egyptian mythology it is a bird of great beauty said to live 500 years in the desert and then to consume itself by fire; rising from its ashes young and beautiful, to live through another cycle. The city's governmental motto, "Resurgens," compliments the phoenix symbol of renewing spirit.

Piedmont Park (C3), Piedmont at 12th St. NE; (872-1507)

Weather

One of Atlanta's best attractions is her "altitude" which makes her weather pleasant throughout the year. Atlanta's high altitude of 1,050 feet above sea level distinguishes it from most Southern cities. Autumn generally requires a light jacket or sweater with day temperatures in the mid 70's and evening temperatures in the 60's. Dress for the hospitality program activities is casual.

Transportation

Metro

Marta (Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority) is the city's public transit system. If your destination is on the Marta rapid-rail route, we recommend Marta's reliable and swift service. The North/South Line includes stops at the Airport, Peachtree Center (one block up from the Atlanta Hilton), the Civic Center, Midtown, the Arts Center, and Lenox Mall. Trains run every six minutes during the day, every 15 minutes in the evenings, and shut down between 1 and 5 a.m.. Maps are available in the stations. Marta fare is 85 cents, exact change only, and transfers are free.

Taxis

Taxicabs line up at all major hotels. They are difficult to hail, so we suggest a phone call. Cost is $1 plus $1 per mile, plus 50 cents each additional passenger.

Tours

Presenting Atlanta, our convention tour service, will be offering excellent tours of the city on Sunday, October 29 in the morning and afternoon. A variety of tours are scheduled throughout the week, as you will see from the enclosed auxiliary and social program, and tickets for these will be available at the registration desk. Representatives will also be in the hospitality suite at the Atlanta Hilton for questions on tours or highlights of the city.

Gray Line of Atlanta Tours are also available by calling 767-0594.

Safety

Atlanta is a wonderful city to stroll through in the daytime, but we would strongly suggest not walking in the downtown area at night.
